BBB Industries is known for its world class quality, product improvements and our strict adherence to OE Fit, Form and Function. We now have a new initiative in place to provide world class support and training to our world class product quality. BBB is embarking on a plan to utilize technology to change how customers and business partners access technical, training, sales and marketing information.

BBB Industries has launched a new YouTube.com channel. The videos found on our YouTube channel are designed to assist installers, countermen, sales staff, DIY'ers and others with technical, troubleshooting and training information.
